Change of government means changes at Department for Business Innovation and Skills

The new Secretary of State for Business, Innovation and Skills is Vince Cable and David Willetts has been appointed as Minister for Universities and Science. All policies are now obviously under review. As it says on the department's website:

"Policy information on this site relates to the former government prior to 11 May. Content is being reviewed and is subject to change."

Latest Statistics

Companies House figures for April 2010:

Number of companies on register at end of month (whole of United Kingdom, private and public)	2,628,912
Number of companies on register at start of month	2,631,135
Number of LLPs	41,507
Total dissolutions	27,414

The register has therefore shrunk since March but nevertheless there were over 30,000 incorporations in the month of April, a 7.8% increase on April 2009.

There were 21,821 penalties imposed for late filing at a total value of £9.2m (yes - nine point two million pounds).
